Membership costs £20 for UK members, £23 for European (or world wide members receiving magazines by surface mail). Our premium service for the Rest of the World (outside Europe) by Air Mail is £25.

How to join

Fill out the information form and if you wish to pay by credit card complete the lower part and send it to: The Ocean Liner Society, 27 Old Gloucester Street, London WC1N 3XX England

This is our permanent forwarding service, which does not change. You may also return the form to The Ocean Liner Society, Mayes House, Vansittart Estate, Windsor SL4 1SE England. This will speed up the process and save us forwarding fees.

If you prefer to pay by cheque or postal order in sterling, it should be made payable to "Ocean Liner Society" and attached to the form.

A longer version of the membership form may be downloaded from the society web site and includes and order form for Sea Lines back numbers and a form about your interests for Ship Visits.

We look forward to having you aboard.

The amazing world of Ships

The passenger ship is an amazing creation, a living city that moves overnight between fascinating ports, now mainly for holiday enjoyment, but some give specialist adventures, ferries fulfil transportation purposes on regular timetables and others cross oceans and circle the world.

For some it is the romance of the Edwardian four stackers or the ground breaking giants of the 1930s to the 1960s chasing the Blue Riband or linking the world before the airliner that cast a spell. For others it is the cruise ships of today and ferries plying regular routes that fascinate. All are represented in the Society's magazine, Ship Show and talks programme.

Why join a Society?

Getting the magazine is the primary reason, as its now rated as among the best in the world for quality and information on passenger ships. Joining cruises, talks and visits is a bonus if you are in range and for those near the talks they are the chance to meet regularly.

Cruises & ship visits

Through the auspices of a specialist cruise agency, we occasionally run group tours on ships that are more difficult for an individual to book.

Ship visits in UK ports have been a popular activity and parties from 4 to people 30 have been organised to view major new ships and smaller, specialist vessels when they are having viewing days. A small administrative fee is payable for visits and sometimes the companies make a charge.

Sea Lines Magazine

The main product of the Society, and a key reason for joining, is the quarterly magazine edited by ship historian and author Clive Harvey, with contributions by other maritime authors and photographers plus reviews and impressions of present cruise ships and ferries by members. There are book reviews, historical articles as well as a review of ship news. The magazine is full colour with 48 pages and page size is 170 x 240mm and we have a supply of back numbers for joining members to catch up.

Lectures

On the third Tuesday in every month (except August) the Society provides a lecture, talk or slide show on some topic relating to passenger ships and the sea.

There are a number of authors, publishers and mariners with something to say that makes a fascinating evening from 1900 to 2100 in Central London and occasionally we transfer to Southampton and other cities to include members there.

Ship Show

On a Saturday each October the Society hosts the London International Ship Show.

It is the only show of its type in the world and features lunchtime lectures and all day there are stalls to browse over books, paintings, postcards, models, memorabilia and artefacts from the liners of old.

Located in an air-conditioned hotel near Euston, the venue is accessible to people with impairments and provides a great day out for keen collectors.
